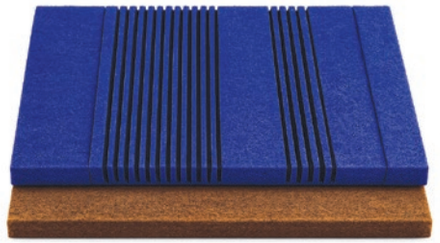
The best rooms perform before the speaker does

That doesn't happen by accident. It happens when acoustics are part of the architecture from the very beginning—considered alongside the seating, the materials, and the design intent.

That's what Akouo is built for.

GiosFelt®



Acoustics and seating, designed as one.

Sedia Systems brings acoustics and seating together from the beginning, supporting architecture that performs as beautifully as it looks.

Acoustics with architectural presence.

Geometric felt forms bring depth, rhythm and acoustic performance into the architectural language of the room. Designed for walls, ceilings and partitions, they create visual impact across learning, performance and public gathering environments.

Collaborative by Design

Working alongside designers from concept to installation with integrated acoustical expertise.

WoodLine

Wood engineered to perform.

Most wood ceilings are chosen for visual warmth. WoodLine delivers acoustic performance alongside it. Natural and exotic wood species achieve NRC ratings up to 0.90 while perforation patterns recede from view and slat spacing maintains clean architectural rhythm at scale.

Livello

Acoustics that blend in — or stand out.

Fabric-wrapped acoustic panels bring sound control directly into walls and ceilings. Flexible formats, custom sizing and refined finishes allow acoustics to recede quietly into the architecture or become a deliberate visual feature within the space.

Acoustics that tell your story.

You designed the room to sound right. Now design it to look like you. Custom printed acoustic surfaces integrate photography, graphics and branded environments directly into walls and panels, transforming acoustic performance into visual presence without compromise.
